Not illustrated. 1864 Excerpt: . was one Joseph Firman, of New York, of whom the said Bott had hired him; that Firman, at the request of the slave, had written a letter to Bott, requesting him to sell the slave, or to find another master for him; that Williams came there to procure a man to work at his furnace in Stockbridge, and, upon BotCs recommendation, Frank consented to go with him, he agreeing with Frank that, if he would serve him faithfully for ten years, he would then give him his time, and would also give him a yoke of steers and ten acres of land; saying that he did not keep slaves any longer than till 259 they had earned what he paid for them. Williams then paid Bott 100, and Bott undertook to sell and convey the slave to him. The said Frank returned with Williams to Stockbridge, and continued in his service seven years, and paid him 30 for the other three years of the ten years before mentioned; which sum he Stockbfudge Vs. West Stockbriuge. paid out of his wages and bounty given him as a soldier in the army of the United Stales. The defendants objected to the admission of the said bill of sale in evidence, because its execution was not proved by the subscribing witnesses; and also because it did not appear that Bott had any right or authority to sell and convey the slave in this manner. Both these objections were...
