Verbatim reports of the proceedings are published both in Abel s Photographic Weekly and the Bulletin of Photography, which should prove interesting reading to those who were not privileged to attend the sessions. Every one had a good time and in their enthusiasm bestowed the well-earned honor of re-election upon president L. B. Painting, to whom the Association is deeply indebted for his untiring services. Our Service Flag N July 1, 1918, ANSCO COMPANY S Service Flag 0 bore seventy-eight stars and a new banner was unfurled at our office. All of the boys whose service is commemorized by a star were permanent employees of the company. Their places in our office and plants have been filled by young women, wherever practicable, or by men above military age, so that there has been no duplication. Of the seventy-eight, our offices and stockroom force has supplied twenty-seven, or more than onethird of the whole number. The next larger group coming from one unit of our organization is from the CYKO plant and the third largest from the camera works. ANSCO COMPANY is proud of the record of sending seven ty-eight of her very best into the World War for Righteousness. WHEN the war in Europe first broke out and a scarcity of mono-methyl paramidophenol sulphate, called Metol by the German manufacturers, became apparent, the numberless substitutes which were offered kept our research laboratory busy...
